A little about our speaker “Scott Warrington.” Scott has been a leading individual within the industry for over forty years. His technical skills include the development of cleaning products tools, the production of materials and training manuals, as well as research and development. Scott has graciously consented to present to us the membership of the CCINW to bring our attention to the diversified arena of meth contamination cleanup, the concerns of getting into the trade and what we should know to provide better service to our clients. So bring your question and let us support not only Scott Warrington, but the CCINW as well. Hope to see you there.
