

CCINW Meeting

Apps for the "savvy" carpet cleaner

We all have software systems that don't cover everything we need, and often buy more than one incomplete system to cover the gaps. The only way to get a total software solution is to buy an expensive all-in-one product and spend even more having it customized for your use.

There may be another solution; covering the gaps using smaller applications (apps) designed for only one purpose.

Yakima based CCINW member Scott Mitseff has integrated several low-cost apps to cover everything he needs, from paperless work orders and invoices to texting photos to clients from an I-pad. At this meeting Scott will discuss what his networked apps do and how he goes about finding and integrating them.

Although Scott's expertise is with Apple products, the strategies employed may help in a similar fashion for Android and Windows applications.
